Library Now Serves The Outside Districts

Outside districts of Maui are now beginning to receive service from the County Free Library. Last month the main part of the work for the librarian and assistant librarian was the checking up of the books sent in from the outside and the making up shipments in exchange. Those received were sent out by the Library of Hawaii last fall and those sent constitute the first shipments of books to the districts outside of Waikuku since the county library was organized. In January 860 books were sent out in that way and Miss Morse expects there will be an increase during February. Some cataloging work was done, however.

At Waikuku central library rooms there were loaned during the month almost 1000 books, 969 to be accurate and to the list of borrowers 85 new names were added.

Equipment ordered is still awaited. All has arrived except the metal shelving and the wooden tables for the reading room. Plans are now being made to enter the library building without waiting for the shelving and perhaps without the tables, using borrowed ones until the latter arrive. The installation of the new lighting system is expected to be completed this week.

Steady increase in the use of the reading rooms is also noted. The larger number of such users are children but more and more the adults are dropping in now that there is a good list of current magazines on the tables.

New Bulletin Board Will Tell of Church Services

An attractive bulletin board has made its appearance on the steps of the Maui Book Store. It will announce from week to week the evening service of the Waikuku Union Church.

It has been felt for some time by the people of the church that the location of the edifice is not the most favorable for keeping the community advised of the services at the church, and so the present publicity is being located nearer the center of town. The board is handsomely built on Mission lines with graceful lettering announcing the hours of service. There is a glass front, and behind this is space for a weekly card stating the sermon topic for the following Sunday.

Maui High Association Will Hold Benefit Dance

Maui High School students and their friends will hold possession of the Territorial building at Kahului, Saturday evening for one of the enjoyable dances which the young folk have shown they know how to give. Music is to be furnished by the Mary Hoffman orchestra.

When the younger element undertakes to give a dance or other entertainment, they do it well, past experience shows. The dances of last year proved that fact and the Student's Association are promising just as much fun and enjoyment as can be crowded into an evening.

Rains Up Country Are Worst Known In Past Seven Years

Weather conditions of the past several weeks have been the worst experienced since 1914, say early homesteaders who are still out in the Haiku homestead districts and the country beyond. That year every one lost heavily. This season they are better situated and the heavy rains have come at a time when it is necessary to move pine to the canneries. It is reported from up country, however, that in some places it will be necessary to almost remake sections of road.

Since September in the vicinity of Peahi there have been very few clear days. During January there were only eight days when rain did not fall, according to Maui News' correspondence. At the end of January there were three days that were especially stormy. On January 30, there was a rainfall of 6.13 inches, January 31, 5.75 and February 1, 5.5 inches, more than 17 inches of precipitation in three days.

Last Tuesday a ditch broke above the Peahi road and made it impassable for several hours. About 80 percent of the pupils of Haleakala school have to traverse that section of road and must cross a bridge which is said to be in a dangerous condition even in dry weather. On Tuesday the boss of the road work was there and turned all the children homeward at the dangerous crossing. On that day the attendance at Haleakala school was 12 out of 146 pupils enrolled. On Wednesday the attendance was only slightly larger.

A landslide in one of the gulches prevented the mail carrier from getting through from Peahi to Haiku with the mail on that day for the outgoing Wednesday steamer from Kahului.

In Waikuku the rainfall for January was away above normal though it appears insignificant in comparison with the Haiku district. The total for the month was 7.87 inches of which 5.56 fell in the last week of the month and three and a half inches in a single day.

On all of the plantations field work was at a standstill for several days and the long continued wet weather has had the effect of weakening the juices in the cane, thus affecting the recovery in sucrose in the mills.

Maui Woman's Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club held yesterday, was very interesting, since Mrs. Mabel Farrington Hahn was the first speaker of the afternoon, and her quiet, earnest manner brought the woes of Armenia very close to the members and friends present. She passed pictures around, which were of actual scenes coming under her observation, and they were such as to bring tears to the eyes of those who saw them. Her appeal for aid was fruitful to the extent that the club pledged $120.00 as its share, which will take care of two children, or rather feed them, for one year.

The Music Department sang "Just Awearin' for You," and was heartily encored, but was not prepared to respond.

Mr. J. J. Walsh followed with a very comprehensive talk on the duties of women in politics. This was very interesting and enlightening to all present. At the close of his talk, questions were asked which Mr. Walsh answered fully and satisfactorily.

The Music Department will meet on Thursday the 16th at the Territorial Building at 3 p. m. All members will please consider this as adequate notice and be present.
